Disaster Risk Reduction Day

October 8th, 2014

India is prone to various natural and human- induced disasters which have serious repercussions at household level and are aggravated due to lack of safety concerns and preparedness at local levels. Home safety refers to the awareness and education on risk and potential dangers in and around houses. which may cause harm, injury, or death to those residing in and around there physical structure of a house. Home safety also includes mitigation or prevention of such dangers through preventive measures and local organizational effectiveness for risk reduction and emergency response. Promotion of “Home Safety plans & Local Preparedness for disaster risk reduction “necessitates the need to create awareness in the whole society particularly school students so that the risk of these disasters can be minimized.

National Institute of Disaster Management (NIDM), New Delhi, constituted under the Disaster Management act 2005, is apex National Institute of Government of India with the nodal responsibilities for human resources development, capacity building, training, research, documentation, public awareness and policy advocacy in disaster management.

The United Nation’ (UN) International Day for Disaster Reduction is being observed every year to raise awareness among people for taking action to reduce their risk to disasters. It also encourages the people and government to participate in building more resilient communities and nations. National Institute of Disaster Management (NIDM) will observe the day on 08th of October, 2014 using it as an opportunity to focus national attention on important issue of “Home safety & Local preparedness”.
